

Abstract of the Disclosure:

An operating panel configuration for an electrical domestic appliance such as a washing machine or the like. The panel configuration has an operating panel and an associated control circuit with operating and/or control and/or switching and/or display elements. The operating panel is provided with a single opening for the control circuit and the control circuit is in the form of a functional unit with all operating and/or control and/or switching and/or display elements. A front side of the control circuit is adapted in respect of design to the front side of the operating panel. The control circuit is preferably in the form of a control module.

REL/tk